HOG TROUGH

The following recipe was posted on Facebook last November by the Pie-O-Neer restaurant. They share this every Thanksgiving and hope that it may eventually become the State Pie of New Mexico!

New Mexico Apple Pie With Green Chile and Pinon

- 2 Unbaked Pastry Crusts
- 5-6 Large Apples, peeled, cored and sliced (we use 1/2 Granny Smith and 1/2 Fuji or Gala - any apple will work EXCEPT Red Delicious)
- 1 T Lemon Juice
- 1/2 C Sugar (may need more if using only tart apples)
- 2 t Cinnamon
- 2-3 T Cornstarch OR flour (depending on how juicy apple/chile mix becomes)
- 1/2-1 C Roasted and chopped green chile, drained if using frozen (Autumn Roast is pretty, Medium heat preferred)
- 3/4 C Pinon or pine nuts, toasted
- 1-2 T Butter, cubed
- 1 Egg White, mixed w/3 T water for egg wash (optional)
- 1-2 t Decorating sugar or table sugar for sprinkling on top (optional)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Combine apples, lemon juice, sugar and cinnamon in a bowl. Let sit a few minutes so the apples can macerate. Add cornstarch and gently mix to dissolve. Add chile and mix gently to incorporate. If chile is very wet, more cornstarch may be added.

Place bottom pastry in pie pan (Pyrex or suitable glass preferred). Scatter toasted and cooled pinon/pine nuts in bottom. Add apple mixture, mounding slightly in center, then dot with butter. Use egg wash to coat rim of crust to create a seal. Place top crust on apples and crimp pastry edges together. Cut several steam holes then brush w/egg wash and sprinkle w/decorating sugar or regular table sugar. (Egg wash and decorative sugar are optional but will result in a more polished looking pie.) Decorate top crust with a pastry scrap cut to look like a chile and sprinkled with cinnamon.

New Mexico Apple Pie With Green Chile and Pinon (Continued)

Place pie in center of oven and bake for 15-20 minutes at 425 F. Turn heat down to 350 and continue baking another 40-50 minutes or until crust is golden brown and juices are bubbling from steam vents. If using glass pie pan, look at bottom of pie to ensure it is brown. If not, continue baking for another few minutes. If edges of pie crust begin to get too dark, cover w/strips of aluminum foil or use pie crust shields.

Cool on wire rack for one hour. Enjoy with ice cream!

MONKEY BUTT REPORT

Since I had not been on an overnight ride in over two years I started to prepare early for the SNMHOG Chapter ride to Tombstone, Arizona. All of my gear was scattered throughout the house but it didn't take long for me to locate my rain gear, cold weather clothes, including long johns, and sweatshirts, GPS unit and even the thumb squeegee I bought years ago to help remove rain drops from my helmet visor. I knew that it would be rainy and cold for part of the ride but at least it would be much warmer once I arrived in Arizona. I did forget the squeegee and my leather chaps. It's always something.

I decided to leave from home after work and all throughout the day Thursday it was raining. Sometimes a hard rain and sometimes just a sprinkle but it was consistently wet. I tried to be positive by telling myself that I had not used my rain gear in some time and what an opportunity to verify that it still works at keeping me dry. When I arrived home from work the rain had stopped but the road was still wet so I put on my farmer john overalls in preparation for getting soaked by passing trucks and cars.

The next two days in Arizona were sunny and warm. The first stop was in historic Bisbee, once a thriving copper mining town back in the 19th century. I had forgotten the vibe of the place since my last visit in 2009. I and the rest of the HOGs enjoyed walking around and doing some sightseeing, occasionally stopping to look at the various shops. There were plenty of photo opportunities and we enjoyed ourselves posing for silly photos at various places.

That evening the group visited historic Old Tucson for a Halloween type scare event. I begged off for one simple reason. Okay, maybe two. First they had pre-purchased the tickets and second the Major League Baseball National League Championship Series was on television. Post season baseball has been an interest of mine for some time and I thought I made a good compromise by spending part of the day with HOGs.

The next day we rode into Tombstone and spent most of the time walking around the old part of town. There are plenty of tourist type things to do there but I enjoyed myself by interacting with the people who were dressed in period costumes, including firearms and elegant long dresses for the women. Heck, even some of them carried guns! I was able to get some photos which the folks were happy to oblige. For some of them that is their vacation and they spend quite a bit of time and money dressing the part of 1880's America. I even went and sat for an old time photo session dressed as a bounty hunter waiting at the saloon. It was great fun!
